MAKING CITIES MORE LIVABLE

Project Title	MAKING CITIES MORE LIVABLE
	Join our science delivery team and apply your artistic and graphic design skills to attract attention to the value of trees in cities across the country.
Country	United States

Project Description

We seek someone interested in using their art to communicate and market to young audiences and city activists. You will be part of a team that meets monthly to learn of new products and research findings, and help to identify target audiences and best strategies for delivery. We will measure success by how many clicks we get on different social media platforms that drive people to our products. Our primary platform for information delivery can be found here: http://www.vibrantcitieslab.com/
